

April 7th 2011

Roblon

Redefining the right to redesign light

At Lo Scrittoio in Verona, the world's finest stationery, gifts and leather goods are elegantly displayed, and then redisplayed to suit new products, new needs and new moods.

Proprietor Matteo Caffarelli and store designer Pietro Sartori need, therefore, the freedom to design the right light at any given time and then to redesign it when new requirements arise.

With Arkilux lighting designer Sara Olivieri, they created an LED solution using versatile Pyxis, Libra and Corvus luminaires.

The lighting angles and the fittings themselves can be freely adjusted.

The fact that the reflector system can be changed was also key,' says Sara

Olivieri. 'You know from the start that it's always possible to redesign the light.'

Lo Scrittoio | Verona | Italy | www.loscrittoio.com
Lighting distributor Arkilux | www.arkilux.com

See and read more in the new Roblon lighting catalogue and at www.roblonlighting.com

If you no longer wish to receive this newsletter, click here

Roblon | Denmark | +45 96 20 33 00